ABOUT ESME SUDRIA

Founded in 1905, ESME Sudria trains engineers for key roles in a variety of new technology sectors: energy, systems and the environment; embedded systems and electronics; images, signals and networks, and digital and data intelligence. ESME Sudria's programs emphasize the spirit of innovation, the importance of projects and initiatives, and the international, human and cultural perspective. With more than 15,000 graduates, ESME Sudria's programs are recognized by the French government and by the Commission des titres d'ingénieur (CTI), the French commission on engineering credentials.
